

Have you heard about the

Seven Revolutions?

They are the 7 key policy issues and trends expected to shape our world through the year 2030.

1	Population
2	Resource management & climate change
3	Technological innovation & diffusion
4	The development & dissemination of information and knowledge
5	Economics
6	The nature and mode of security
7	The challenge of governance

A team of twelve 7 Revolutions Scholars representing universities across the country has been working over the past couple of years to integrate the 7 Revolutions into their own courses/curricula and to develop resources that can be used/adapted by others.

Seven Revolutions is a project at the Center for Strategic & International Studies (CSIS) with the following goals:

- Translate the 7 Revolutions for undergraduates
- Produce strategies, materials, and programs to develop globally-competent citizens

Check out this web site to explore the 7 Revolutions: <http://csis.org/program/seven-revolutions>

Learn more about this revolutionary program and find out how you might get involved. Bring your own lunch to this Brown Bag event. Drinks and dessert provided.

Join the conversation with colleagues on:

Monday, February 20, 2012

12:30 – 1:30 p.m.

266 McComsey

Presented by

Dr. Marjorie Warmkessel

Professor, Library

Event sponsored by the Center for Academic Excellence & the Millersville University Library

Please register for this session by contacting Kristina Gorodensky at 872-3051 or Kristina.Gorodensky@millersville.edu. For more information, contact Dr. Sharon Brusic, Director of the Center for Academic Excellence, at 872-3380 or Sharon.Brusic@millersville.edu.