

Millersville University
Faculty Senate Minutes
October 1, 2002

The meeting was called to order at 4:15 pm. All academic departments were represented.

I. Minutes

The minutes of the September 17, 2002 Faculty Senate Meeting were approved as distributed.

II. Report of the Faculty Senate Chairperson

1. Chairperson Piperberg reported that since the last Faculty Senate meeting he had attended meetings of the Commencement Committee, the 120 Credit Committee and the Common Calendar Committee. At the Commencement Committee meeting, the timetable for chores that must be completed prior to commencement was discussed.
2. Chairperson Piperberg also requested that, where possible, when Senators bring a document to Senate for distribution that they also send to him and the Senate Secretary an electronic copy of the document via e-mail. This would be true of emeritus proposals (long and short forms), proposals from committees, etc. It would not apply to course and program proposals, which are not generally attached to Senate Minutes.
3. Chairperson Piperberg reminded Senate of the e-mail announcing his intention to move the agenda item dealing with International Studies up to item XII. He explained that the intent for the current meeting was to introduce the topic and not to proceed to any vote until the Senate had had some time to consider the issues presented. He suggested that the Senate allow each of the two distributed documents to be explained briefly to frame the questions involved and allow a short time for questions. He also stated that Senate will come back to this item at the next meeting and that at that time the item will return to its original position on the agenda. He asked if there were objections to the change in the agenda and none were voiced.

III. Report of the Senate Student President

1. Student Senate President B. Danz commended the faculty for their efforts in teaching and helping students at Millersville, in light of an unflattering editorial that had recently appeared in The Snapper.
2. He reported that the Millersville Persons-of-the-Year had recently been announced by Student Senate.
3. He announced that the Student Senate was participating in a mentoring program with students at McCaskey High School this year.

4. He also stated that the Student Senate will be working with the Office of Social Equity to plan a Dialogue on Race and Gender this year.

IV. Report of the Graduate Student Organization -- No Report.

V. Reports of Administrative Officers

1. Provost McNairy announced that she has approved a proposal by the Earth Sciences Department to place three geology options on moratorium. Those options are Engineering Geology, Geochemistry, and Geophysics.
2. Provost McNairy updated the Senate on the 120 credit hour policy, which originated in the Chancellor's Office. This policy is to take effect beginning with the Fall, 2003 semester. She mentioned that the University will seek exceptions to the 120 credit hour policy for the B. S. Ed. and Respiratory Therapy programs.
3. Provost McNairy has approved the elimination of the General Elective from the General Education Curriculum G4 block. She reminded Senate that this change will not apply to students currently enrolled at Millersville.
4. Associate Provost Phillips discussed the Common Calendar, which will take effect in the Fall, 2003 semester. She announced that the fall semester will be essentially identical to the current fall semester, but that the MU version of the Spring, 2004 semester calendar has not yet been finalized. She also mentioned that the University intends to maintain a Winter Session, but in a modified form. A number of approaches to a modified Winter session have thus far been discussed, but no final decisions have yet been made.

VI. Reports of the Faculty Senate Standing Committees

UCPRC

1. Senator R. Wismer announced three proposals:

The Computer Sciences Department seeks to add prerequisites to some existing courses in order to ensure that these courses are taken in the proper sequence.

The Geography Department seeks to add GEOG 245 (Geography of Pennsylvania) as a new course.

The Foreign Languages Department seeks to make HUMN 280 (Spanish Literature in English) a General Education (G1) course. Senator Wismer also moved consideration of this proposal at the current meeting. The motion to waive the One-Meeting rule for this proposal passed without dissent.

2. Senator R. Wismer also mentioned that UCPRC will not require assessment methods to be included in undergraduate course proposals until guidelines for these methods have been received from the combined Outcomes Assessment and General Education Review Committees.
3. Senator R. Wismer mentioned a Board of Governors requirement for 40% of coursework (48 credits) to be composed of junior and senior level courses. He suggested that the definition of a junior level course needed to be firmly established to facilitate compliance with this BOG requirement. This matter was referred to the Academic Policies Committee upon passage of a R. Mowrey and R. Bookmiller motion, which included a charge to resolve any inconsistencies between the Governance Manual, the University Catalogs and any other relevant documents. Included in the motion to refer to Academic Policies was a charge for them to report back to Senate expeditiously.

GCPRC

Senator R. Mowrey introduced a proposal by the Communication & Theatre Department for a new graduate course, COMM 510 (Communications in Organizations).

Academic Theme Committee

Senator S. Yalda, outgoing Chair of the University Theme Committee, moved that next year's theme for the University be "Unity, Excellence and Strength Through Diversity". {see attachment} The motion passed without dissent.

Academic Standards Committee

Senator R. Kerper, Chairman of the committee, introduced a motion from the Committee to add the Director of Learning Services to the Committee membership. {see attachment} The motion passed without dissent.

General Education Review Committee

Senator J. Fenwick mentioned the idea of creating a Task Force or Ad Hoc Senate Committee to consider changes in the structure of the general education curriculum in the light of current nationwide trends in thought about General Education. He sought guidance from the Senate about the advisability of such a committee and what form it might take. He suggested that a formal proposal might be forthcoming at a future Senate meeting.

VII. Report of the Faculty Senate Special Committees -- No Report.

VIII. Proposed Courses and Programs

The change in HUMN 280 (Spanish Literature in English), introduced earlier in the meeting, was approved.

HUMN 280 – Spanish Literature in English 3 cr.

Requesting G1 General Education designation. Desired effective date is Spring 2003.

IX. Elections

1. A R. Mowrey/B. Dorman motion, which closed nominations and directed the Senate Secretary to cast a ballot for all of the nominees, passed without dissent.
2. J. Fenwick asked that nominees be accepted to fill empty seats on the General Education Review Committee on a one-year, At-Large basis as has been done for the last couple of years. The request was honored and W. Archibald and J. Wimer were nominated to fill the seats. A similar request was made by R. Kerper, chair of the Academic Standards Committee. B. Ikenaga and S. DiBartolomeis were then nominated to fill vacancies on this committee on a one-year, At-Large basis. The nomination of M. Arnold to fill the Social Sciences seat on the Commencement Speaker Committee was also accepted. The elections for these seats will be held at the next meeting.

X. Changes in the Status of the International Studies Program and Related Issues

1. K. Bookmiller addressed the move of the International Studies program to the Department of Government and Political Affairs and presented the rationale for the move. She introduced the proposal {see attachment} to replace the current International Studies Curriculum Committee, a Faculty Senate standing committee, with a committee that includes involved faculty from each department, which contributes courses to the program. The proposal also states that the chair of the committee would be a member of the Department of Government and Political Affairs. Course and program proposals approved by the committee would not require separate approval by the Department of Government and Political Affairs. Instead proposals would be funneled directly to the appropriate School Curriculum Committee(s) and then to UCPRC and Faculty Senate.
2. M. Arnold presented an opposing viewpoint {see attachment} to this proposal based on the history of the International Studies program's design and development.

Senators posed a few questions, which were answered. The intent to revisit this issue at the next Senate meeting was stated.

The meeting was adjourned at 5:45 pm.

Respectfully Submitted,

Paul Studdard
Senate Secretary

To: Faculty Senate

From: Department of Government and Foreign Affairs

Re: International Studies Curriculum Committee

Date: 1 October 2002

Proposal:

As a result of the August 2002 administrative transfer of the International Studies program from the Office of International Affairs to the Department of Government and Political Affairs, the Government Department petitions for the discontinuation of the existing International Studies Curriculum Committee (ISCC) as a standing Faculty Senate committee with its current chair/membership structure and election process. In its place will be a same called department affiliated committee with identical reporting lines and curricular functions but with an expanded faculty membership structure (see rationale below).

Rationale:

1. As the IS program is now administratively affiliated with the Department of Government, a new curricular committee would replace the current Faculty Senate standing committee. The current committee has a chair selected by (but not from) Faculty Senate, and a traditional Faculty Senate committee election process/membership formula. As it exists, membership is distributed across academic units but without consideration given to the 12 contributing departments<sup>1</sup> or faculty who possess International Studies related-discipline background.
2. In its place would be an enhanced curricular governance structure whereby all contributing departments (defined as contributing one or more courses) to the International Studies program will have an automatic committee representative. The contributing department will choose a faculty member(s) to serve on the committee from among its faculty pool who offer courses included in the International Studies program. The contributing department roster will be reviewed on a semester basis in order to continually update committee membership. Each department will have an equal vote and decisions will be made by a simple majority.

<sup>1</sup> The contributing departments are the following: Biology; Business Administration; Earth Sciences; Economics; Educational Foundations; Foreign Languages; Geography; Government and Political Affairs; History; Music; Philosophy; and Sociology and Anthropology;

3. While the chair of this committee will be a GOVT faculty member who also contributes International Studies program courses and coordinates the International Studies program on behalf of the Department of Government and Political Affairs, the new International Studies Curriculum Committee will NOT report to or require approval from the Government Department's curricular committee or Department as a whole regarding curricular matters. It will report directly, as it currently does, to the curriculum committee(s) of the appropriate school(s), the University Course and Program Review Committee and Faculty Senate. Interdepartmental curricular ownership of the International Studies program is therefore guaranteed; a situation which does not exist currently.

RESPONSE TO THE ABOLITION OF THE INTERNATIONAL STUDIES CURRICULUM COMMITTEE

Prepared by Marlene Arnold for Faculty Senate 10/1/02

The purpose of this document is to set forth a number of issues with the proposed restructuring of both the International Studies Curriculum Committee and the International Selection Committee. The International Studies Curriculum Committee has been dissolved, an International Studies Curriculum Coordinator has been appointed, and that position, which had been filled, in the past, through application to the International Studies Curriculum Committee has been placed in the Government Department, along with the International Studies major and minor. Additionally, I have been informed that the International Selection Committee is slated to be disbanded as well. Since both of these committees went through a lengthy development and review process, were approved by Faculty Senate, and became part of the Governance Document (pages attached), changes to these committees must follow the procedures set forth in the Governance Manual.

KEY ISSUES:

Policy/Process Has Been Violated

It was pointed out to Faculty Senate, at its first meeting this academic year, that the administration may place a program wherever it likes. While it is true that contractually the administration is not required to have faculty input into the selection of a program director, such as the International Studies Curriculum Coordinator, that is before anything is done, before any agreements are made. But in this case, the administration agreed to the structure established and placed it in the Governance Manual. The administration now also is bound by that policy, because they agreed to it. I do not believe that policy in the Governance Manual has ever been so grossly ignored until now. This is a serious departure from past practice.

Implications for MU's Organizational Culture

Over the past 20 years at this university, an atmosphere of collegiality has prevailed. This is part of the legacy of President Caputo. Under his leadership, a community emerged at this University that has been characterized by open discussion and civil engagement. This has enabled much creativity and change to emerge over these past two decades at our University. Part of Dr. Caputo's vision for this way of working together was the creation of the Governance Manual. This document was to spell out formally how we all would work together to continue this tradition of collegiality. The culture of Millersville University has been one of open discussion, respect, and process. We didn't always agree, but process was followed. People were respected. Discussion was encouraged. Honoring agreements made and recorded in the Governance Manual will help us to continue this positive, collegial environment on our campus.

A Little History

The international studies curriculum, and the structure for administering it, is the culmination of work begun in February 1983, by the International Studies Task Force, appointed by Provost Keith Lovin. This interdisciplinary group completed its work one year later, and Dr. Lovin took its formal report to the Faculty Senate in the Fall of 1984. The Faculty Senate requested that an International Studies Committee be created as an Ad Hoc Committee of Faculty Senate, to formalize the recommendations made by the task force. Dr. Lovin came back to the Senate with 15 names (3 from each division) of members for this ad hoc committee, in February 1985. The ad hoc committee submitted its implementation recommendations to Faculty Senate in January 1986. In February 1986, the Faculty Senate established the International Studies Curriculum Committee as a permanent standing committee of Faculty Senate, and the policy and procedures approved were published in the Governance Manual. The International Studies Curriculum Committee called for applications for the first International Studies Curriculum Coordinator, made a recommendation to the administration, and as a result the first International Studies Curriculum Coordinator was appointed in Spring 1987.

During the 1987-88 academic year, the International Studies Curriculum Committee worked with two outside consultants on the international studies curriculum proposal. After countless meetings and consultation with curriculum committees in all three schools and the UCPRC, the International Studies Curriculum Committee brought its final proposal to the Faculty Senate, which approved the International Studies major and minor in May 1988 (see curriculum sheet attached).

Following the completion of the curricular work, the administration established an Ad Hoc Committee on International Affairs to propose a structure and process for international faculty and student exchanges. This group submitted its final report to the Faculty Senate in November 1990 (see committee's cover page attached). The Faculty Senate approved the proposal, which included additional appointments to the International Studies Curriculum Committee (see attached "FACULTY SENATE Action Summary, 4 December 1990").

Original Intent

Placing such a broad, interdisciplinary program under the auspices of a single department sends the wrong message to our students. The world, now more than ever, since 9/11, needs interdisciplinary, cross-cultural, multi-generational coalitions to address human social, cultural, economic, and political problems. This decision which positions the International Studies Major as a major within the Government Department (or within any single department) is the wrong move at the wrong time.

The faculty who designed the International Studies major and minor believed that we could create a truly diverse curriculum that would help to prepare students for the complex world in which we live. We, the faculty and members of the administration involved, also aspired to act in that same fashion — to engage in interdisciplinary collaboration — to walk the talk — to model, for our students, a dream for a better world, a world where difference coming together results in solutions of higher quality for all.

Request for Action

Indigenous wisdom teaches that one of the most important aspects of leadership is the ability to extend honor and respect. The term “respect” comes from the Latin word respicere, which means “the willingness to look again” or “to look back, showing consideration.” Leaders are willing to take a second look rather than remain stuck in a particular view of a situation.

I request that the Faculty Senate exercise leadership on this issue by referring any changes to be made to the international studies structure to the International Studies Curriculum Committee, in accordance with the Governance Manual, in order to allow all of us to revisit — to look again — at this issue, to come together and consider the current needs of this curriculum and to make a proposal that maintains the integrity of the International Studies Major and Minor, as well as meets its present needs.

Equal Opportunity

The claim has been made that the program would be better served by housing it in a regular department, but why the Government Department? Why didn't the other departments that have a stake in the International Studies Major have an opportunity to bid on this? As is clear in the following, there are a number of departments that are major stake holders in the International Studies Major.

Department	Number of Courses in the International Studies Major
Biology	3
Business Administration	3
Earth Science	1
Economics	6
Ed Foundations	1
Foreign Languages	6 language courses per student/plus 1 Latin Am Lit course
Geography	11
History	5
Music	2
Philosophy	2
Political Science	5
Sociology/Anthropology	10

In summary, there are key questions that need to be addressed. What has happened with this program has both substantive and procedural implications. All of the proposed changes are important to the integrity of the program.

Should the International Studies Major and Minor be housed in a department, and if so, how should that department be selected?

Should the committee that oversees the international curriculum have a multi-department composition?

Should the curricular recommendations of such a committee be subject to the approval of the Government Department (or any single department)?

Should the International Studies Curriculum Committee continue to recommend candidates for the position of International Studies Curriculum Coordinator?

Do any of the above policy changes require Senate approval, or is the administration free to decide on its own?

I request that the Faculty Senate review any proposed changes and that changes to the Governance Document follow the procedures as specified by the Governance Manual.
