Peripheral Budgets

Independent Operations

Gifts and Grants

Self-Supporting Operations

Additional Budgets (funded by discretionary funds)

These budgets should be reviewed at the same time as discretionary and student wage budgets.
Year End Procedures

• It is recommended that all departments review all relative cost centers beginning in early May for budget availability and open commitments.

• If any of your budgets/cost centers have a deficit balance, it must be resolved before year end close.

• As part of the year end close process, carry forward balances will be determined. Generally, the following are directly carried forward:
  ▪ Most independent operations budget balances
  ▪ Funds remaining in a gift or grant
• Discretionary budget balances will be carried forward to the appropriate Vice President or Dean for reallocation
• Carry forwards will be posted by September

• SAP sends automatic alerts notifying the user of the funds center if funds are nearly exhausted
  ▪ The notice provides the amount remaining, the specific funds center and the account
  ▪ This is only a warning and you can still proceed
  ▪ Only a “red bomb” warning will prohibit you from proceeding with a transaction.

BUDGET OFFICE

WELCOME

The Budget Office is responsible for developing, monitoring, tracking, analyzing, and ongoing rebudgeting of the University’s Educational & General and Auxiliary Operations budgets.

Why do we budget? If we had unlimited resources, budgets would be unnecessary but clearly, we will never operate in an environment where unlimited resources are available. In an effort to utilize its resources as effectively as possible, the University follows a financial plan. Budgeting is a mechanism for setting priorities for institutional activities.
