

Undergraduate Student Learning Outcomes

Department of Psychology

At Millersville University, student learning is the primary focus and the Department of Psychology has identified the following goals for all those who complete our undergraduate program.

- 1) Psychology graduates are knowledgeable concerning the content of psychology, including the major concepts, theoretical perspectives, empirical findings, and historical trends.
- 2) Psychology graduates are able to read and evaluate the appropriateness of conclusions derived from published psychological research articles.
- 3) Psychology graduates are prepared to enter advanced degree programs or the workforce.
- 4) Psychology graduates are able to apply knowledge from their discipline.
- 5) Psychology graduates are able to demonstrate information and technological literacy.
- 6) Psychology majors show sensitivity to and respect for diversity.
- 7) Psychology graduates are able to apply knowledge from their discipline in “real world” settings.
- 8) Psychology graduates are able to demonstrate collaborative skills in academic and professional settings.