- (“...very interested in having MU Clinical Psychology students at our agency. However, it is very important that the student contact me early. In order to do any clinical work here, a 45-hour of training is required. DVSLC generally only offers the training two times a year. If possible, the student should make arrangement to take the training during the fall semester so they can begin working with program participants in the spring semester. I only take 2 students a semester at the emergency shelter facility. Senior Social work students also apply for field placements with our organization...DVSLC currently employs 2 Master level social workers. I am the only MSW with a license, but the other MSW has 5+ years of experience. We also have access to Dr. Susan Atkins, licensed psychologist, to assist with supervision when needed.” Students interested in DVSLC should contact them early in the fall because 15 hours of training is required before starting work. It is also preferred that students be able to spend 1-2 eight hour days at the shelter.)

*Possibility for PAID INTERNSHIP

<http://www.pcbh.biz/>

- PCBH Advocate Services is a community-based program. It offers youth and families, served through York County Children, Youth, and Family Services and the Juvenile Probation Departments, a cost-effective alternative to residential care, as well as, an after-care service to those returning to the community. Youth are referred to the program through their County Caseworker, Juvenile Probation Officer or Youth Aid Panel Coordinator. Youth referred to the program may be experiencing abuse, neglect, delinquency, truancy, mental illness, developmental disabilities, mental retardation or substance abuse issues. This alternative to residential placement is provided through the advocacy model which is a consistent relationship between a supportive skilled staff member (Advocate) and an at-risk young person and their family. An Advocate is a caring, interested person who provides a consistent non-power relationship between himself/herself and the young person. The Advocate is selected for the child on the basis of mutual interests so that a trusting relationship may develop. By providing an appropriate and intervening significant other, Advocates help young people develop a better understanding of themselves and others. The Advocate also develops a supportive relationship with the youth's family and involves them in the development and implementation of meaningful activities.

SCHOOL DISTRICTS

Please Note: You must speak to the instructor of Directed Projects about your interest in a school-based placement. Typically, our students are able to shadow and work with school counselors or school psychologists. You MUST NOT contact any school or districts yourself. We now work with Field Services in Stayer Hall, who secure the placements for us. You must get started early. Your Directed Projects instructor will tell you how to proceed.

Also, note that you will need clearances before you can apply for a school placement. See MU Early Field Experiences website for info on obtaining required clearances.

Here are schools that have accepted our students in the past. This is a list JUST FOR YOUR REFERENCE.
